

RECRUITING STUDY PARTICIPANTS

A UCSF Medical Student (Alice Lu) is recruiting research participants for a one-hour virtual interview for a research study about Trust in Smartphone Applications for Health Purposes

Study Purpose: This study is exploring public opinions on trust in using smartphone applications for monitoring and sharing personal health data. The study focuses on Chinese populations to learn more about the unique views of this population.

- Eligibility: Self-identifies as Chinese, aged 50+, owns a smartphone and has access to email
- Participation Requirements: The study is a one (1) time phone or video call for approximately 1 hour.
- Compensation: Upon completion of the study, you will receive a $20 grocery gift card (physical or e-gift card) for your time.

Contact Information

If you are interested in participating in this study or learning more about it, you can contact the UCSF medical student, Alice Lu, at alice.lu@ucsf.edu.

For other questions, you can contact the principal investigator Dr. Ida Sim at ida.sim@ucsf.edu.